 GEORGE ENG SUPERVISORY PATENT EXAMINER		My Nguyen Patent Examiner Art Unit 2617

Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because:

Regarding applicant's argument that "Tilford shows the camera fixed within the enclosure (Fig. 8)," Tilford discloses a portable device which includes a video camera (Col. 3 Lines Line 53). Examiner contends the portable device may be moved and therefore is understood to have the claimed "swivel" capability. Since the camera is within the enclosure, it is understood Tilford discloses the claimed swivel-based camera.

Regarding applicant's argument that "Nowhere in Tilford is a buffer taught or suggested either coupled to or between the Feed LNB 41 and the tuner/modulator 62," it should be noted in light of the current rejection, claim 12 is rejected with regard to Tilford wherein Tilford discloses passing the digital signals transmitted via a satellite link and a wireless relay system (i.e., digital satellite system, Fig. 1 Element 20, Col. 4 Line 56 - Col. 5 Line 19) from said antenna that receives said signals (i.e., antenna, Fig. 11, Col. 7 Lines 45-49) to a series of line amplifiers (i.e., amplifier, Col. 6 Lines 26-29), said series of line amplifiers and a network switching element (i.e., transport IC, Fig. 12 Element 68, Col. 11 Lines 59-61) have an input buffer (i.e., buffer, Col. 11 Lines 65-67) coupled therebetween, said network switching element receives input from said PC/PCS modem (Col. 11 Lines 41-61).

Applicant contends nowhere in Tilford is a buffer taught or suggested either coupled to or between the Feed LNB 41 and the tuner/modulator 62, however it should be noted applicant has taken examiner's rejection out of context and therefore applicant's argument is considered moot. Examiner has identified Tilford disclosing the transport IC 68 (Fig. 12 Element 68, Col. 11 Lines 59-61) as being understood as the claimed network switching element and NOT the tuner/modulator 62 as being understood as the claimed network switching element as asserted by applicant.
